

Our Envisioned Harvest

Sensing into the purposing of Samara, creating a new kind of organization, enacting a socio-technical stack that puts the human at the center of the organization. Potential pathways from our core purpose into increasingly larger possibilities of gradually expanding the offerings of Samara.

- Samara Offerings
- Samara Starter Kits
- Samara Sacred Consultancy

Samara Offerings

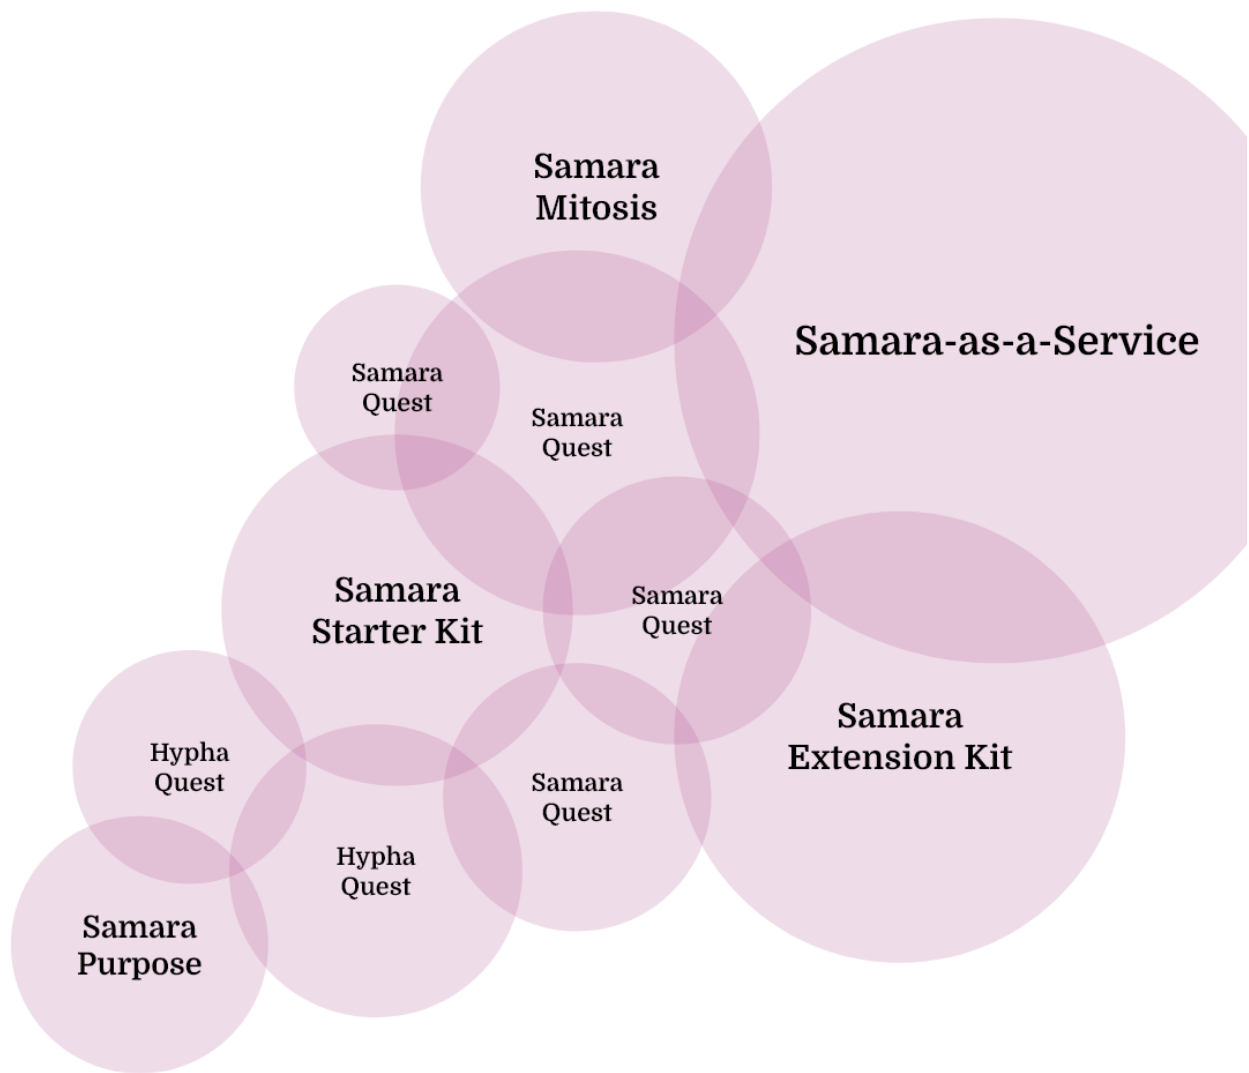

Samara's value proposition is embedded in two evolutionary processes - *purposing*¹ and unfolding .

Sensing into the *purposing*¹ of Samara (the constant evolution of our core purpose), there are several fields of activation and creation out there that we are attracted to and resonate with. Activation is the field of aligning with existing entities (villages, communities, alliance partners) and cooperating on shared activities. Building is the activity of co-creating something new which can result in shared blueprints or knowledge recipes. The green hexagons are highly aligned with Samara's current purpose (link), followed by other purposes in gray (some of which are addressed by other groups of Seeds/Hypha).

Organization Building has everything to do with creating a new kind of organization, enacting a socio-technical stack that puts the human at the center of the organization. Our approach is to create a simple container that includes all necessary parts to launch and to accelerate the process of building an organization. This container (or vessel) is what we call "Organization-in-a-Box" and "Marketplace-in-a-Box". Once shipped, it can be "unboxed" and "activated" at the destination, a process that establishes the necessary trust and reciprocity first, before looking for a potential solution space.

Sensing into Samara's second evolutionary process - the unfolding - we can see potential pathways from our core purpose into increasingly larger possibilities of gradually expanding the offerings of Samara. This picture is by no means complete and will evolve over time. At this early stage, we've experienced Hypha's Incubation Quest (the first "Meiosis" of this kind in Hypha's organization) and have co-created the first steps towards a new kind of organization, acting as an independent entity. From here, the possibilities are endless - launching new quests, creating new offerings (e.g. starter or extension kits), doing our own meiosis, or working on a broader Samara-as-a-Service concept to become a new kind of global service-oriented ecosystem, not unlike a consultancy, but with the aim of symmathesy and not rivalry.

[1] A term coined by Paulo Carvalho, a member of Hypha and SEEDS

Samara Starter Kits

Samara Starter Kits represent the next stage in our journey to transfer our knowledge and blueprints to a much wider audience (the next generation) so that the next wave can continue to hand their knowledge over to their own descendants (a process called autopoiesis). It is also a process to continuously refine our thinking (the next iteration) and include the experience of other people using the Starter Kits (a process called Social Design created by Cheryl Heller, the Founding Chair of the first MFA program in Design for Social Innovation at the School of Visual Arts).

None of us have practical experience setting an autopoietic process in motion and knowing what will happen if it starts to replicate itself. However, we believe that by combining the above processes, we have the necessary ingredients to set a larger movement in motion, maybe even scratching the surface of creating a new civilization. Let's return to one of Hilma af Klint's paintings (The Swan No 9 from Group IX) that seems to have an encoded message for us (over 100 years ago!) about Samara and the Starter Kits.. we leave it up to the astute reader to interpret it for us.

Samara Seed

Org in a Box

As we dive deeper into the Samara Starter Kits, you will notice that they blur the line between the digital and the physical - this is on purpose, and we intend to offer these kits both as digital and physical artifacts - print your deck of cards, pin your wall canvas, flip through your game guides and gather with people in both virtual and physical spaces to start playing & learning! But there's more. As we package our knowledge into "boxes" and as you undergo the "unboxing", you will quickly notice that the contents of the box will affect your personal surroundings and actually have an impact on your livelihood (is this really a Pandora Box in a good, more complex sense?).

Once you've entered into this "serious game", you will recognize the possibilities that are opening up in front of you. That space is incredibly large and will open new doors to higher and higher "sense-making plateaus" that simply weren't visible to you before and now become plausible and indeed preferable! So, without further ado, let's take a look at these magic boxes:

1. The Organization-in-a-Box
2. The Marketplace-in-a-Box
3. Other boxes and Shared Services for all boxes

The Organization-in-a-Box

Imagine you receive a box that contains everything you need to set up your organization. Imagine you open this box and inside you see a "Quick Guide" that gives you and your team a quick way to launch your own organization without the inertia and pain of following the old paradigm of slowly setting up an HR function to hire and to pay the "right" people, getting managers to control those people, and building an org chart to put these people into tiny squares. Opening the Organization-in-a-Box follows an entirely different kind of paradigm - one in which you can bring your genesis team together, agree on the initial allocation of tokens, download and configure your organization's DNA and then launch it within a much shorter timeframe and with much less startup cost.

The foundation to build this new kind of organization is trust and the key to unlock it is self-organization. The Organization-in-a-Box contains everything you need to establish these two pillars from which everything else will evolve more naturally and joyfully (like a game).

See the slide here

The Marketplace-in-a-Box

People will only adopt a new currency if they can use it to buy goods and services. Thus, establishing cooperative market platforms where Seeds are accepted as a preferred means of payment for regenerative products and services is key. At the same time, it increases visibility and accessibility to these regenerative products and services and increases collaboration and knowledge sharing among the stakeholders.

With the Marketplace-in-a-Box concept, Samara wants to provide a toolkit that will help to establish a platform that allows and incentivizes aligned organizations to trade with each other and support each other through sharing knowledge and resources. Similar to the Organization-in-a-box, this is not a one-size-fits-all manual, but rather a set of questions, principles and toolsets that support the configuration and evolution of a locally adapted solution.

https://www.youtube.com/embed/B_BbZvx6NPk

See the video here

Other boxes

The concept of a tangible box can be extended into many other areas. For example, Rieki has introduced the concept of eco-villages, resorts, or retreats that can benefit from the implementation of a specific village DHO. From there, we can collect all necessary artifacts and put them in a box to be delivered to the village elder. Hypha has received many a positive response from the deck and we are eager to prepare for this transition of villages into an new generative and co-evolving ecosystem. We believe this sets this stage for new "bioregional DHOs" -a kind of conglomerate of hundreds if not thousands of local eco-villages, resorts, or retreat DHOs becoming active all over the planet.

Last but not least, Samara has operationalized an impressive array of Shared Services, such as group collaboration and messaging, wiki gardening and knowledge sharing, document and file management or video conferencing, that can be offered as an additional managed service to partners or stakeholders. We are constantly improving and adding to the set of shared services, so that any new node in the network can immediately benefit from the additional service offerings. This saves clients significant expenses of cost and time and allows them to deploy valuable resources for different areas of concern.

See the slides here

Samara Sacred Consultancy

What will the future bring? Nobody knows, but let's look into the Magic Crystal Ball for a moment and ask ourselves how prepared we are for a new kind of future in which Samaritans can become a kind of "sacred consultancy" that honors the trust, space, rhythms, and rituals that we have created here and simply replicate and offer this model for other organizations. These questions are meant for reflection; there are no definitive answers and everyone will have a different answer for themselves. They also transcend who we are by asking what others will become. We are not holding the torch and trying to "sell a solution" (see Stay-in-a-Box Consultancy below) - instead we want to pass the torch to the next generation and show them present new ways from their own understanding of the world.

- Why we can be good at what we do (unique imaginal cells)
- Why we can represent the renaissance (unique community support)
- Why we can teach the next generation renaissance leadership (unique conscious org)
- Why we can easily replicate our model (unique technology stack)
- Why we can go deep (vs. broad) into the solution space (unique transformative impact)
- Why we can easily transfer our DNA to others (unique knowledge logistics)
- Why we can become more anti-fragile and anti-rivalrous (unique value creation)
- Why we can birth (incubate) new entities (unique value exchange)

Stay-in-the-Box Consultancy	Get-Out-Of-The-Box Consultancy
Scarcity mindset, not enough for everyone	Abundance mindset, plenty for all
Many players & few winners	Many players & many winners
Knowledge is hoarded and is power	Knowledge is shared and becomes more powerful
Big bucks for big words in big decks	Small tokens for impactful words in large regions
You wanted wheels with the car? That costs extra!	Batteries are included!
Our way or the highway, so let's take the highway	There are many roads to success, let's take the road not taken

